MAYORS URGING HASTE

Cleveland, $2,000,000 in Debt
for Needy Aid, Points to Unrest Among Jobless.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS — A poor relief problem which has almost doubled in size since last November brought Ohio's legislators back to the capital today to devise another makeshift program of aid for the needy.

Their job, as viewed by the big cities and several legislative leaders, is to raise approximately $17,000,000 for support of the indigent during the remainder of the year. Many legislators, particularly those from the rural areas, believe a smaller amount would be adequate.

See Long Delay.
The question of how the money shall be obtained promises to produce a controversy which may delay enactment of a program for several weeks.

Meanwhile, mayors of the large cities are urging all possible haste.
Their portion of the $12,000,000 for relief which the legislature made available earlier in the year has been exhausted by several municipalities. Cleveland claims it is $2,000,000 in debt for relief necessities, and officials there said unrest was growing among the unemployed.

The state government used up its available funds for the year when it handed out the $12,000,000.
"Aside from new state income taxes, where then shall we turn for relief money?" some perplexed members of the legislature ask.

Recognizing, too, the political hazard in new taxes in an election year, the administration has proposed mortgaging the future.

Thus money for this year's relief needs could be raised by issuing bonds in anticipation of 1939-40 revenue from the beer, sales, admissions and utility taxes.

Firestone Renews Contract, Wage Clause Untouched.

AKRON — (U.S.) — The United Rubber Workers of America today had a renewed contract with the Firestone Tire & Rubber company.

The contract, essentially the same as that signed at the conclusion of a long strike April 28, 1937, runs until April 30 next year.
It was approved by the Firestone local of the union after a four-hour meeting in the Goodrich O.
R. W. A. hall. L. S. Buckmaster, local president, said that the vote on the contract, taken by a show of hands, was almost unanimous.

All major provisions, including wage agreements, of last year's contract were renewed. A new clause provided for opening of wage negotiations by either side upon ten days' written notice.

New Crisis Looms as Press Says America Attempts to Stifle German Trade.

(By International News Service)
BERLIN — (U.S.) — German-American relations today rapidly approached a new crisis as bitterness over America's "helium hold-out" became more acute, and the press charged the United States with trying to drive Germany out of South American markets.

In an organized outcry by the government-inspired press, the German public was told that America sought to kill the reich's Latin-American trade by spreading the report that Nazism engineered last week's abortive green-shirt putsch in Brazil.

The press said this "smokescreen" was being spread "from Wall Street and Washington."

Follows Duce's Blast

ment of the United States was the second in three days from a totitarian state. On Saturday, Premier Mussolini commented caustically on "speech-makers from charge of Secretary of War Woodring that Fascist nations were leading the world to war. Italian newspapers held that such remarks as Woodring's were in themselves paving stones towards war.)

The American embassy was greatly puzzled today by Saturday's announcement, through the German official news agency, that Washington's protest against "utilization" of American Jewish fortunes had been rejected by the German government.

The embassy received no such communication, nor was any embassy official requested to appear at the German foreign office up to a late hour today.

City Launches Observance of National Safety Week Tuesday

With a slogan of "safe on the road, safe at home," Mansfield tomorrow starts its observance of National Safety week.

The week is something more than just another "national week" for it is sponsored by the National Safety council and safety-minded groups over the nation are participating.

The week also is the 25th anniversary of the founding of the na-ing when the horse and buggy was giving way to motorized transportation.

The purpose of the observance is to advance the safety program.

CLIMAX THURSDAY

Special Air Mail Flight
From City to Headline Week's Celebration.

National Air Mail week, commemorating 20 years of transporting mail by plane, opened throughout the nation
today, and Mansfield marked it with an unprecedented rush to make use of the fastest method of handling postal material yet devised.

Between the hours of 7 a. m.
and noon today, more than 4,000 air mail stamps were sold by the Mansfield postoffice. Postmaster
Herman E. Hombberger announced this afternoon. The average daily sale is 300 ordinarily.

Holiday for Collectors.

A great many of these were purchased by collectors, who wanted cancelled stamps and special cachets of the event for their collection. But hundreds of other purchasers were persons who were simply using the air mail because it was National Air Mail week.

The highlight of the week so far as Mansfield is concerned, will come Thursday when a special air mail pick-up flight will be made from Mansfield to Cleveland. It will be the first time that air mail has ever been flown out of Mansfield. In ordinary handling, air mail from Mansfield is taken to the nearest air mail stop by the usual carrier, and begins its travel through the clouds there—either at Cleveland or Columbus.

The pilot of the Mansfield pickup flight will be Henry Cuningham, a Mansfield mail carrier, and a licensed pilot. Cuningham has been commissioned by the government as an air mail pilot for the day.
He will leave the municipal airport at 3:15 p. m. with a cargo of Richland county air mail and 45 minutes later is scheduled to arrive at Cleveland.

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the flight, will meet this afternoon to draft final plans

Fund Workers Renew Efforts to Reach $53,950 Goal.

With only a little more than half the goal of $53,950 for this year's Community Fund raised to date, workers were in the field again today trying to increase that figure by a substantial sum before tomorrow's report meeting.
Last Friday, when the second report was made only $28,891 had been raised. The drive runs through next Saturday.

Arthur S. Hughes, general chairman of the campaign, said today that one reason the fund was lagging was because several workers have not yet distributed the pledge cards turned over to them, and that a number of concerns have not been contacted at all.

Tomorrow this slack in the ranks will be discussed at the re-

One of City's Noted Sons To Speak on Memorial Day

Col. Lahm, Army Veteran, Will Be Orator of Day for Services at Cemetery Following Parade.

Mansfield's observance of Memorial day this year will be highlighted by the return, as orator of the day, of one of its most distinguished sons, Col. Frank P. Lahm.

Now in charge of aviation at Governor's Island, N. Y., Col. Lahm has a long and distinguished army record. His vision and foresight are generally credited with the development of using balloons in the United States army. For a number of years he was stationed at the American embassy in Paris. He is connected by birth and marriage to a number of Mansfield's older families. His wife, now deceased, was the former Gertrude Jenner.

Col. Lahm will speak at the services at Memorial stadium in Mansfield cemetery.

Traditional observance.
Mansfield will observe Memorial day in the time-honored manner, with a parade, patriotic services and a memorial program for war dead. All veterans' organizations in Mansfield and their affiliated patriotic groups will take part in the observance.

ACCIDENT NEAR BUCYRUS

Arthur Johansen, 22, Victim of Mishap; 12 Others Die in Ohio Accidents.

A former Mansfield resident was injured fatally early Sunday in an accident involving four automobiles near Bucyrus and at least 12 other persons died in week-end traffic mishaps in the state.

Mansfield and Richland county reported only one traffic injury, according to city and county officers, although a number of persons suffered injuries in nearby counties, including F. E. Wicks, Ashland county auditor.

Youth Dies in Hospital.

Arthur Johansen, 22, former Mansfielder, died at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Bucyrus City hospital of a skull fracture he received at 12:30 a. m. Sunday when an automobile crashed into a parked car along route 19 seven miles east of Bucyrus.

Johansen, who had been riding with four other persons, all residents of Gallon and Bucyrus, was in the rear seat of a car looking for tools with which to change a flat tire, when a machine driven by R. C. Claes of Crestline crashed into the rear of the auto and threw him forward on his head.
The impact pushed the first car
30 feet, witnesses said.

Friends See Crash.

The other members of the party who were standing beside the car, witnessed the crash.

Claes was not held responsible for the accident according to Sheriff Albert French of Crawford county who investigated. Two other cars crashed into the rear of the Claes automobile, but none of the occupants were injured. Claes, however, suffered minor cuts and was treated by a Gallon physician.

Johansen, who was employed by the North Electric company, Gallon, left Mansfield in 1929. A native of Denmark, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Soren Johansen; a brother, S. V. Johansen of Bucyrus, and a sister, Edith of Alabama. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

F. E. Wicks, Ashland county auditor, was treated at Good Samaritan hospital, Gallon, for head lacerations and body bruises received in a collision at the intersection of route 30-S and 61 east of Gallon.

Mother Says "I Had Murder In

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—(U.S.)—
"I had murder in my heart, but I didn't know it was my child I

This was the only explanation to authorities by Mrs. Cella Winn, 42-year-old housewife, who was held here for observation today for throwing her 21-month-old daughter into a tub of scalding water, resulting in the child's death two hours later.

Deputy Sheriff R. C. Jackson, who investigated, said he was unable to obtain particulars, except to learn the mother filled the tub with scalding hot water, picked up the child and threw her into it.

Threat Of Falling Walls Perils Lives Of Rescuers; Basement Blast Sends Flames Shooting Through 5-Story Building; Some Leap To Safety.

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTA—Twenty-five persons were killed, 13 were injured and many others were missing in a fire which raged early today through the five-story Terminal hotel.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said it was "the deadliest fire in the history of Atlanta."

With 25 bodies removed from the ruins, at least a score of persons were unaccounted for under varying estimates of the registration.

Destruction of the hotel records and mutilation of the victims by falling timbers and steel hampered identification efforts.

The ruined walls stood as a menace to traffic and rescue workers. Police said a high wind would cause them to crumble.

Collapse of the roof, plunging debris through charred floors to the basement, cut off hope of survival for any who were trapped.
Only the walls were left standing.

Hotel attaches said "at least fifty" were registered when the flames broke out with an explosion in the basement kitchen shortly after 3 a. m.

Fire Chief Parker said he was informed 60 were in the brick and frame building.

Five persons jumped. One man, unidentified, who leaped from a fourth floor window, died of a broken neck.

Three other men were suffocated.

Ben L. Berry, 78-year-old hotel clerk, and G. R. Kimberly, 54, fireman, were burned on the hands in rescue work.

Two Reached Safety.
E. K. Guley, 48, special agent of the department of internal revenue, and his wife were awakened by the smoke and heat and fled down a fire escape from the fourth floor.

"Two minutes more," Guley said, "and we never have made it. I don't see how any others could have gotten out alive."

Carl Nash, an employee of the Piedmont hotel, and Ed Davis, a fireman, rescued three persons shortly after the fire was discovered. Nash said all were overcome by smoke, but were not burned.

Chief Parker said when the first fire company arrived flames were shooting from the windows and it was impossible to put up nets.

Charlie Labon, bellhop at the hotel for 20 years, was on duty in the lobby when the fire broke out.

TRUSTIES FLEE

2 O. S. R. Inmates Walk Away
From Farm During Rain.

Two Mansfield reformatory trustees who walked away from the farm dormitory during a rainstorm Saturday afternoon were still at large today, Supt. Arthur L. Glatte reported.

The two are Denver Walton, 25, and Andrew Szinjonas, 18. Walton had been at the reformatory since November, 1936, sent here from Fairfield county on a charge of cutting with intent to wound to serve from one to 20 years. Szinjonas was received at the reformatory from Cuyahoga county in March 1937, on a charge of burglary and larceny and was under sentence from one to 15 years.

Glatte said that both boys showed up missing for the dormitory supper "count" and that a posse immediately searched the grounds near the institution but found no trace of them.

Lancaster authorities said that Walton had been arrested there 19 different times on misdemeanor charges and had once escaped from the county jail there.

Defendants Prepare Answers In Personal Tax Test Suits

Asserting that the court action was a surprise to them, the defendants in four tax suits filed in common, plead court Saturday were preparing today to file answers to the petitions which would require them to account for personal taxes paid from 1926 to 1930 on four estates in the Mansfield area.

Defendants named in suits testing a law held unconstitutional in 1932 are J. A. Rigby, president of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company; Harry S. Black, president of the Farmers Savings and Trust company; the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as administrator of the estate of the late Burton Preston, and the widow and three sons of the late Frank B. Black as administrators of his estate.

All four suits were filed under the name of Michael Hallabrin, 100 Gibson avenue, as a taxpayer.
C. W. Fox, cashier of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, said: "We know little about the case and the cause of the action."

Atty. Henry P. Huston of the law firm of Weldon and Huston representing the Black estates, said defense counsel probably would confer on the action before filing answers.

The petitions, filed by Atty. Joseph A. Bayer for Hallabrin, seek an accounting of personal property held by the defendants and an accounting of personal taxes paid from them in the four-year period from 1926 to 1930.

—Advice—
Stop Nagging Adviser Tells Woman

By VIRGINIA LEE
"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I read in your column of a man going in with a woman who has a bad temper and is nagging all the time. This man doesn't tell of his faults."
"I am a woman who has lived with a man for three years with the promise of marriage. When I met him he told me his name and where he was from. I believed and trusted him until one day I found a letter in his pocket from his mother. I found he had lied to me. I found out his right name, and he wrote his mother and told her he was married to me. Now his mother and sisters write me, thinking I am their in-law."
"He is good in some ways, a good worker, don't drink or go out much. My problem is I don't trust him. I want to live right. I am tired of being a common-law wife. I am honest and good in a way, only I nag at him for telling me lies and promises. Now he says he doesn't want me, but he won't leave. He continues to stay with me. I can't get rid of him. I love him, but I am willing to give him up if it kills me rather than live like this. Please give me some advice. It may help me as I am sick and cannot go on this way.—JANE"

Too bad you did not insist in the first place that if this man love you he would marry you or you would have nothing more to do with him.

However, don't you see, my dear, that you are going the wrong way to get him to do as you wish? Nothing can wipe out the fact that you have been living with him as his wife. In the eyes of the law, you probably are, in fact, his wife.

Now if you want to get him to go through a marriage ceremony with you, the best plan is to persuade him gently, not nag and bully him. That sort of thing only makes anyone more stubborn. I know you get worried and sick over the whole mess, feel guilty, and all, but the fact remains that you are going the wrong way to work on him. You have been disappointed in him, too, but now you know he is not to be trusted in every way you will be on your guard, but still you need not keep his faults before him all the time.

BLUE EYES: I think I answered your letter before, or was that another girl with a similar problem? I think you would be a very wise girl to go out with other boys, especially those nearer your own age, and to try hard to forget about this boy. So you see I agree with your mother.

JAY: I am afraid I cannot very well make you acquainted with the person you speak of, for various reasons. I am sorry.

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT IN ANY BOOK
THERE ARE many useful morsels of information about the game which can be picked up at the table, but which you are not likely to find in any book. The principal reason for your absence from standard publications is that they don't come up frequently enough to be of great use in the long run. But the experienced player who spends many sessions with advanced opposition gradually acquires a great store of once-in-awhile instruments, plus mental habits in thinking out situations for himself.

South made a natural response here to North's double of the opening diamond bid by West. It was 1-No Trump, to show that he had pretty good strength and also had diamonds securely locked up. North went to 2-Clubs and South, a bit afraid of hearts, bid 2-Spades to encourage North to show his heart stoppers, if any. North had no heart stoppers, but he didn't like to support spades with three cards and was not enthusiastic about rebidding clubs, so he bid 2-No Trumps, counting on South to stop the hearts. South interpreted the call as indicating heart stops, so went to a No Trump game.

A brilliant natural player in the west decided to lead the heart K, being fortunately ignorant of the fact that no such lead is shown in standards books. When his partner played the five and the four was missing, West led his A and then the little one. Hence five hearts and one diamond set the contract two, a deserved victory for common sense, which is the main thing featured, anyhow, in any sound book.

White Hair Adds Touch Of Glamour

By JULIET SHELLEY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)
A FEW NIGHTS AGO this department went swank and attended a very social party. Loads and loads of really beautiful young girls were there—but, the woman of the moment was past forty. She had the most gorgeous white hair that we have ever seen. The men flocked around and you couldn't blame them. She was by far the star of the salon.

Thirty years ago this couldn't have happened. A woman just automatically gave up, when her hair started turning gray. Now all that has changed. You can be glamorous and interesting when your hair has turned to silver. This has become such an established fact that lots of girls put gray or white streaks in their hair to add to their fascination.

So the smart thing to do is let your hair go its own way. Concentrate on keeping it looking its very best, and of course try to keep your skin clear, line-free and radiant.

White hair is more brittle and drier than other hair, so give it a lot of brushing and scalp treatment. And don't use yellow or tar soaps on it.

There are some very good treatments that you can give your hair at home to keep it from having those yellow discolorations that are the bane of the white-haired ladies' existence. Mix an ounce of peroxide with a teaspoonful of plain table salt, dip a piece of absorbent cotton into the liquid and apply it to your hair. Next comb it through your hair thoroughly. Leave it on about three minutes and then have your shampoo.

Use soft water for the washing and a pure, mild soap, or a natural oil shampoo. Have the water about body temperature. Rinse your hair with great thoroughness and use lots of water in the process. You want to be absolutely sure that you have removed the last vestiges of the soap.

Final Bluing Rinse.
Then for your final rinsing use a nice bluing. And don't use the regular laundry bluing that is used on white clothes. It is really blue, and will give a greenish cast to white hair. The kind that is used for hair is the French bluing. It is violet and will make your hair a lovely sparkling white.

If you are planning to have a permanent wave be sure to tell your operator exactly what you have been using on your hair to keep it white and in condition. Some of the bluing and tonics may react to the heat and chemicals in the permanent. Your operator will tell you about this, and you can stop using them for a while before getting your wave.

Another thing to remember is that sometimes the clamp used in a croquignole is made of copper alloy, which, when heated, will discolor white hair. So be sure the ends of your hair are wound with crepe wool, so they won't be in direct contact with the clamp.

With these little attentions your white hair will become a flattering halo, and you will have a chance to be indiscreet even though you have reached the age of discretion.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, May 17.
VERY LIVELY business conditions of a profitable nature are presaged by the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. These auguries also point to sudden changes or travel, with much stirring in launching such business projects which will bring financial satisfaction. Be wary of strangers.

If This Is Your Birthday.
Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for changes during the year, with profitable new contracts or propositions demanding fresh plans and environs. It should be a most auspicious time for dealing with persons of power and financial standing who will lend a friendly ear to proposals of merit.

A child born on this day may be highly talented, versatile and original, with a predisposition to get into predicaments through stubbornness and quick action. However, it probably will be successful, winning the support of important persons, being popular, attractive and ingenious.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

By ADELE GARRISON
I THINK I never have been nearer a serious motor accident than when Dicky's car went past me upon the Grand Central Parkway at a speed which certainly would have brought him a summons to court if a traffic officer had caught sight of him.

In my astonishment, my hands relaxed upon the wheel and the car swerved to the side of the road. Just in time I regained control of the wheel and escaped crashing into the curb, and perhaps overturning.

Shaken and upset, I involuntarily slowed down, and thus had time to observe Dicky's maneuvers. He had slowed down once he put a distance of several rods between us. Then he drew to the side of the road, stopped, leaped from the car, stationed himself directly in the path of my oncoming car and held up a signaling hand for me to stop.

Obeys His Signal.
There were three courses open to me. I could run over him. I told myself fantastically, I could ignore his signaling hand and swerve to the left, risking a serious accident, or I could obey his signal. I did not know whether prudence or avid curiosity dictated my slowing my own car to the side of the road, stopping just behind him.

Dicky wasted neither words nor movement. He came up to the side of the car and spoke crisply, hurriedly.

"I must speak to you," he said. "I'll turn off at the next right turn and stop at the first possible place we can draw up the cars without a ticket. Will you follow me?"

I resisted the impulse to shout "No" at him, but it took me the better part of a second before I could control my voice sufficiently to answer him.

Mary Told Him.
"I am in a tremendous hurry," I said coldly. "I want to reach the farm as soon as possible."

"Yes, Mary told me about the kids coming home," he rejoined, and I wondered what else Mary might have told him, once she realized that I had broken my tacit understanding with her not to telephone her uncle.

"I won't keep you but a very short time," he said, and there was a curious something in his voice, very like humility, and completely foreign to my often arrogant husband.

"But I must talk to you," he reiterated, and I suddenly capitulated, for, indeed, there seemed nothing else that I could do, without making myself appear petty and mean spirited.

Agrees to Follow.
"Very well, I'll follow you," I said.

"Thank you," he answered perfunctorily, and with my brain in what the old novelists would call a "turmoil," I followed him off the parkway to a road the side of which afforded us safety from traffic officers if it did not give us seclusion. Dicky leaped from his car as soon as it had stopped, and coming back to mine, put his hand upon the door.

"May I get in?" he asked, still with that curious something like humility in his voice. "It will attract less attention if I do."

"As you please," I answered, and I could not keep from frosting the perfunctory words. I saw my husband's lips tighten, and saw certain lines around his mouth etch themselves deeper, sure sign of his anger. But his voice was calm and measured as he said, "Thank you," and took the seat beside me.

"Will you tell me, please," he began with stilted politeness, "why you did not give your legal name when you telephoned the magazine office a few minutes ago? Was it perhaps because you are thinking of resuming your former name?"

"So you recognized the name, 'Margaret Spencer'?" I retorted, purposely ignoring his inquiry. "Was not sure that you would."

"Yes, I recognized it," he said grimly. "But I asked you a question. Please answer it."

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—The ad in the "Personals" was intriguing.

"See Hollywood night life accompanied by the film stars of yesterday," it invited.

So I called the number—and I met Cherie Ray. Cherie's a hearty blond with an office on Hollywood boulevard. The sign offers "professional escorts" and "professional listening," and if the telephone's repeated ringing means anything Cherie is doing a good business.

Cherie got the idea two years ago when she came down from San Francisco for a visit, bringing her nicest clothes, and didn't see anything of Hollywood because she didn't know anybody. A woman traveling alone couldn't just page an escort out of thin air, so Cherie went home. In Egypt, a friend told her, a woman could always find a reliable, presentable guide, perfectly safe and on the up-and-up. So Cherie came back, and went into business.

It might strike you as a business fraught with potential dynamite, this supplying of "dates" for lone-seen visitors and residents.

"It isn't," said Cherie. "I know people. I can size up a customer in a minute. If there's anything funny in the air, I catch it. Then all my escorts are busy, and it's no deal."

The retired vaudeville and stock actress gives part-time employment to 49 men, ages 21 to 60, and 77 women, ages 21 to 50. Her basic requirement in selecting "escorts" is college background. Refinement, personality, and character are others equally essential. She has college boys, film extras, stenographers, a young doctor, a lawyer, and a couple of titles on her list. Tennis players, golfers, motorists, horseback riders, fillers-in-at-bridge, guides to see the sights are called for as often as evening escorts. The regular fee is $10, for evening dress $15. This is split 50-50, the customer paying the freight of the "date."

"Those 'stars of yesterday'?" "We have a few, but I'm not at liberty to give their names," Cherie says. "Don't want to embarrass them."

Cherie knows of similar agencies in San Francisco, New York, and Detroit, thinks every city should have one.

"I believe I've prevented quite

THEATER

"Condemned Women."

Three women of extremely opposite temperaments are thrown together in one cell at a woman's penal institution in "Condemned Women," which will be shown at the Madison for two days, Tuesday and Wednesday. It follows "College Swing," the current attraction. Sally Eilers, as a former nurse who goes to prison through a force of circumstances; Anne Shirley, who takes the rap for her sweetheart, and Lee Patrick as "Big Annie," occupy the same cell and become victims of Annie's plot to make a jail break. Romance buds between Miss Eilers and the young institution physician.

Martin's Voice Pleases.

Tony Martin who has one of the best voices of the masculine singers in pictures, does nice work in "Kentucky Moonshine," the comedy at the Ohio. As a radio talent scout and singer, he finds what he thinks is the genuine article in hillbillies down in the Kentucky hills, and then stages a broadcast from a barn in the hills. His best number is "Moonshine Over Kentucky." The three Ritz Brothers pose as the hillbillies and Marjorie Weaver, up and coming young star, poses as a girl of the mountains, all of which Tony takes at its face value. Slim Summerville makes a terrifying and terribly funny hillbilly bent on a feud.

Popular Films Return.

Two pictures that are highly lighted with stellar names are booked for return engagements at the Majestic the middle of the week. Starting tomorrow that theater will present "The Devil Is a Sissy" with three of the most popular juvenile actors—Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney, and Gladys Swarthout, opera star, John Boles and John Barrymore in "Romance In The Dark." The former revolves around a gang of East Side boys, one of whom is the son of an English architect. The boys get into juvenile court when they steal jewels to raise a fund for a tombstone for the father of one of them. The picture is distinguished by its human interest appeal.

Romance at Annapolis.

From three different walks in life come three new cadets for service at Annapolis Naval academy, one with a background of brilliant social life, one a brilliant but lazy gridiron star, and the other a former fireman on a navy cruiser. Their friendship and their battles and progress through the academy is interestingly portrayed in "Navy Blue and Gold," at the Ritz. In it are Robert Young, James Stewart, Tom Brown, Lionel Barrymore and Florence Rice. On

Plan Your Wedding In Advance for Success.

Take a Happy Bride's Advice.
She looks so radiant and care-free. Who'd guess that this young bride planned all the details of her lovely wedding?

"But it was easy," she laughs. "As soon as Tom and I had the date set, I made a list of what the bride and her family pay for: invitations, bridal gown, trousseau—as well as music, decorations, refreshments for the wedding itself."

"I know how much the family purse would stand, so I planned from the start to have the kind of wedding that would fit."

"Then, of course, Tom got the ring and license, and paid the clergyman. And he gave me my bouquet."

"But it's really just as important to budget time as money. First, decide on the place for the ceremony; then make out guest lists; choose attendants next. Remember, invitations must be mailed at least two weeks before the wedding. It's easiest to write thank-you notes a few at a time as gifts arrive . . ."

May Parties
New Recipes
Given Today

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

About this time of year, as the old Almanacs used to say, look out for May parties. We know, of course, that you will want an idea for a new May basket.

A French Onion Soup is appearing in a completely new Miss Schofield setting and if you wish further to follow your flair for foreign recipes there is a Chicken Stew-Mexican style. Honeydew salad and Ginger Ale Sherbet in anticipation of the first warm days is given the forehanded hostess.

Strawberry Tarts are again in season, not the kind we have always known, but with a new garnish that adds so much to their appearance.

May Baskets.

Bake plain cakes in deep pop-over pans which flare slightly at the top; pans should be lined with greased paper. Let the cakes cool, dip them into softened frosting and let them dry on a wire rack; then pipe frosting on to the sides in diagonal lines, woven over and under each other to simulate basketry, with open spaces between and a fluted edge at the top in light brown color (chocolate flavor). Put flowers in top of basket with pink, orange and violet colored frostings, with yellow centers and green leaves. It is convenient to have a separate pastry tube for each color. If frosting does not flow freely, hold the metal pastry syringe under the hot water faucet, that the heat may soften the frosting. If it flows too freely, chill in chopped ice. Cut strips of candied orange peel to use as handles for the May baskets.

- 1 cup butter
- 2 pounds powdered sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- Table cream

For ornamenting cakes mix together butter, salt and water; add sifted powdered sugar, vanilla, and table cream as needed to make smooth frosting. Beat very thoroughly, that the sugar may lose its grain and taste like a cooked frosting. Divide into pails and tint each cautiously with paste or liquid food coloring.

French Onion Soup.

- 6 Medium-sized onions
- 3 tablespoons butter

Leading Contender For Fame

Directions for making these luscious looking individual short-cakes are simple and easy to follow. Here is how it's done. Take 3 cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, 1/4 cup milk, 2 quarts strawberries, washed and hulled. Sift flour once. Measure. Add baking powder and salt. Sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead for 30 seconds. Roll a quarter of an inch thick and cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet. Brush with melted butter. Place remaining circles on top and butter tops well. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Cut strawberries in small pieces and sweeten slightly. Reserve 8 whole berries for garnish. Separate halves of hot biscuits. Spread bottom halves with soft butter and some of sweetened strawberries. Place other halves on top crust-side down. Spread with butter and remaining berries. Garnish with whipped cream and whole berries.

- 4 cups boiling water
- 4 cups brown stock
- Pepper
- 4 slices toast
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, grated
- Salt

Peel the onions, slice and cook them in the butter over low heat, stirring, until a delicate brown. Add water and simmer twenty minutes; add stock and bring to the boiling point and season with salt and pepper. In the meantime toast the bread a light brown, sprinkle with the cheese, and place in the oven until cheese is browned. Cut into squares and place in hot soup dishes, pour over them the hot soup and serve at once. Individual bean pots may be used in which to serve this type of soup.

Chicken Stew.

salt, pepper

Select two roasting chickens. clean and cut as for frying. Cook in the lard until a golden brown. Remove the chicken and place in a casserole on top of the lime, sliced. In the lard in which the chickens were cooked fry the tomato, olives and raisins. Mix, bring to the boiling point and pour over the chicken. Add the cloves and green pepper cut in strips, and season with salt and pepper. Cook at 350 degrees Fah. until chicken is tender. About a half hour before serving add the olives, pitted, and the seedless raisins. Serve in individual Mexican dishes, if possible.

Honeydew Salad.

- 1 honeydew melon
- 1 pound seedless grapes
- 1/2 bunch mint
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 lime
- 1/2 a cream cheese

Chill the honeydew melon, remove the rind and cut the pulp into inch cubes. Wash the grapes thoroughly and remove from the stems. In the centers of well-chilled salad plates arrange nests of cress and mint. Add the cubes of melon and dress with the mayonnaise that has been thinned with a little lime juice. Surround the melon with grapes and top with a small ball of cream cheese.

Ginger Ale Sherbet.

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1 egg-white

1 tablespoon sugar
1 pint ginger ale
Allow sugar to dissolve in warm water, let cool, add orange juice, unsweetened pineapple juice and lemon juice, mix and let chill.

Prepare eight or ten pounds of chipped ice and mix with two pounds of coarse ice-cream salt. Assemble the freezer ready for use, and pack with salt, ice and any brine which may have accumulated. Let stand five minutes to chill the container, turn the crank several times to settle the ice, then add more of the ice and salt.

Pour fruit juice mixture into the container and let chill thoroughly for two or three minutes, turning the crank a few times to prevent the mixture from caking on sides of container. Then start turning the crank slowly and freeze to a mush, remove dasher, fold in egg-white beaten stiff and sweetened with one tablespoon of sugar, then open a pint bottle of chilled ginger ale, and add it to the mixture. Finish freezing the mixture to the consistency of sherbet, remove dasher, push the mixture down lightly in the container; cover and let stand until time to serve.

Strawberry Tarts.

- 1 quart strawberries
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon arrowroot
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg-white
- 1/2 cup chopped nut meats
- 6 medium-sized pastry cases

Bake the cases by placing round pieces of pastry over inverted muffin pans. Wash and RECIPES ...

hull the berries, crush one cup, add sugar and water. Heat and thicken the juice by adding the arrowroot, moistened with a little cold water, and bring to the boiling point. Reserve about six spoons of the thickened liquid for a glaze to be put on the top of the filling of the tarts. Pour the rest over the whole berries—if some are large, cut in halves—and chill. Beat to a froth the egg-white and dip the edge of each pastry case in this and then in the chopped nut meats spread on a saucer. Pistachio nut meats give the green bits in with the other pieces, furnishing an attractive color and flavor. Just before serving, fill these cases with the berries and add the glaze. One tablespoon and one-half of cornstarch will thicken in place of the arrowroot but does not give so clear a syrup.

Kitchen Hints

In baking fruit or wedding cakes which require long, slow cooking, place a shallow pan filled with water in the oven. The water will help keep the cakes moist and give a glaze to their surfaces. Each cake should be allowed to cool in the pan in which it was baked.

Pennsy Votes Tomorrow in Crucial Primary Battles

POLICE GUARD ORDERED FOR VOTING BOOTHS

Lewis, CIO Chieftain, Remains Big Issue in Senatorial, Gubernatorial Races.

BULLETIN
NEW YORK—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley today endorsed Thomas Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania and Gov. George H. Earle for the nomination for U. S. senator.

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA—Extraordinary police precautions were prepared today against irregularities when Pennsylvania votes tomorrow after a slam-bang primary campaign that may foreshadow events to come in the presidential election of 1940.

At least two voices were raised in an appeal for observers from the U. S. senate to join the police at polls in Philadelphia.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, himself a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, issued a statement "guaranteeing to all citizens that their rights (to vote without coercion or interference) will be protected."

Meanwhile, candidates went at it in eleventh-hour charges and counter charges—with a debate over whether labor leader John L. Lewis is a major issue—dominating some exchanges among warring democrats.

Back Kennedy
Lewis and Sen. Joseph F. Guffey are backing Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for governor along with Mayor Wilson for the senate.

Against this lineup is the state Democratic committee's slate featuring Gov. George H. Earle for senator and Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, for governor. Charles J. Margiotti, still turning up new charges against the Earle administration on the very eve of the balloting, is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination independently.

The immediate stake among the Democrats is party control and the state's national convention votes. The risk in their intra-New Deal struggle is defeat by the Republicans in November, an eventuality that would make Pennsylvania a true keystone in the presidential election.

Lewis, in an apparently plain test of his political strength behind Kennedy, still maintained a personal silence today as Governor Earle dubbed the bushy-browed CIO chief the big issue.

Guffey Deserts Earle
Earle was deserted by Senator Guffey after he sided with the Democratic state government supporting Jones for governor.

Among the Republican candidates, State Sen. G. Mason Owlett's assertion that U. S. Sen. James J. Davis had missed 1,000 senate sessions at Washington brought an indignant denial from the reelection-seeking senator. Owlett is an opponent for the nomination.

Seventy-two-year-old Gifford Pinchot, twice governor and seeking the Republican nomination again, is opposed by Judge Arthur H. James.

Pictures City As Gateway To West In Route 30 Book

Mansfield is portrayed as the gateway to the west in Elmer C. Stauffer's new book, "A Lane to Romance," which traces the path of historic U. S. route 30 across the nation.

In the book which has just been added to the Chamber of Commerce library, the author describes the route which passes through Mansfield and across 12 states as the "Main Street of America."

In discussing Mansfield the writer says, "At Mansfield the westbound traveler leaves the hills that have been his companion for 300 miles. The next hill of any consequence west of here is beyond Cheyenne, Wyoming, 1,500 miles westward."

He also points out that it is at Mansfield that the motorist can either select route 30-S or route 30-N into Delphos. While the southern route is a few miles shorter, the northern route is "more potentially charged with human interest," Stauffer wrote.

Paul W. Williams, secretary of the chamber, said the book was sent to the C. of C. for its work in compiling local data on the history of the route.

INFANT DAUGHTER BURIED
The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bright, near Millfield, died at the home Sunday morning. Funeral services were held at the Wapner funeral home today and burial was in Zehner cemetery.

Harry J. Dotson, John Simpson Junior high principal, is answering to the title of "Doctor" these days. A student came to his office the other day complaining of a stomach ache and asking permission to go home.

"Dr." Dotson gave the boy a piece of chalk, and told him to let it dissolve in his mouth, then drink some water. The student did, and almost immediately returned to the principal's office to report, "Gee, Mr. Dotson, I feel better already!"

The little black Pomeranian dog that was injured when struck by a car at Fourth and Walnut about a week ago, was well on the road to recovery today and his owner may have him by calling for him.

The little fellow was brought into The News-Journal office after being hurt and was taken to the home of the Misses Helen and Florence Workman, Park avenue west, Good Samaritans of Mansfield dogdom. They cared for the dog and nursed him back to well-being, but they have no room for him permanently. If the owner fails to call for him he will be given to the first person who offers a good home.

Not all model airplanes are brittle, toy-like crafts, Mansfield is learning from the displays in downtown windows in connection with National Air-Mail week. One of the planes appears big enough to actually carry passengers. It is the model ship built by Edward H. Beilstein, 348 West Fifth street, which has a wing spread of more than six feet. It actually flies under the power of a midsize motor and can remain in the air for several minutes.

ORGANIZE TODAY

Liquor, Beer Permit Holders Meet at Courthouse.

Upwards to 75 liquor and beer retailers in Richland county will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at the courthouse to organize a permit holders association.

Earl C. Pollock, chairman of the organizing committee said a county-wide association was planned in an effort to clean up the liquor and beer business of those persons whose conduct was proving detrimental to the business as a whole.

Paul Wentzel of Columbus, assistant liquor director, and Allen George, enforcement officer in charge of the Mansfield district are expected to attend the session.

The meeting was arranged following a session with members of the state board of liquor control three weeks ago at which time it was suggested that the retailers form an association to "police" their own business before it was too late.

OPENS TRIALS OF 69 ACCUSED IN 'BLOODY HARLAN' RIOTING

(By United Press)
LONDON, Ky.—In an atmosphere of tension, amid special guards sworn to protect witnesses, the federal government began today its prosecution of 69 persons accused of terrorism in "bloody Harlan" county to keep coal miners from organizing under the Wagner labor relations act.

The defendants, 47 men and 22 corporations engaged in the mining of coal, were indicted under a musty law passed in 1870 in an attempt to smash the Ku Klux Klan. They are charged with conspiring to prevent coal miners in Harlan county from organizing for the purpose of bargaining collectively under the Wagner act.

If the government wins it will have set a precedent of law that can reach out and affect scores of industries. The Wagner act is a civil statute and in itself carries no criminal penalties for violations. By invoking the 1870 law, providing jail terms and fines for persons who conspire to deprive a citizen of his constitutional rights, the government hopes it can, in effect, write a punitive clause into the Wagner act.

All corporations on trial are members of the Harlan County Coal Operators' association. The government charges that these companies, working one of the world's richest soft coal fields, resorted to murder, bombings, arson and kidnapping to prevent union organizers from gaining a foothold in Harlan county. In this campaign of alleged terrorism, the government contends that the coal companies hired deputy sheriffs, ostensibly as mine guards, but in reality to intimidate the workers.

YEGGS SEARCH OFFICER, FAIL TO FIND GUN

Patrolman, Chief Open Fire as Gunmen Hunt Money at East Palestine Lodge.

(By International News Service)
EAST PALESTINE—Two members of a Youngstown bandit gang today were shot and killed when they walked into a police ambush in the attempted holdup of the Eagles' club here.

The dead men, identified by Youngstown detectives, were Mike Lepushan, 23, and John Urko, 31, police said. They were shot by Sgt. M. A. Mock, of the state highway patrol, and East Palestine Police Chief Walter Warren. Two other members of the gang escaped under fire.

Wait In Shifts.
Tipped that there would be an attempted holdup, police established an ambush Saturday night, and waited in shifts until the bandits entered the club early this morning.

Lepushan and Urko entered the building, guns drawn, and forced Mock, who was in plain clothes, and Janitor John Mansell to lie on the floor. They searched the two, but failed to find Mock's service revolver.

As the pair turned from him, Mock opened fire, killing one of the men. Chief Warren then rushed into the room from another part of the building and shot the other bandit. Both died instantly.

A third bandit, waiting at the door of the club, ran to a waiting automobile and fled.

Corp. W. E. Arey of the highway patrol and Chief Columbiana County Deputy Sheriff John Herman, fired at the fleeing bandit. They said they believed there was a fourth man waiting in the car.

Police said they had been told there would be a holdup Saturday night or early yesterday, but that they believed the gunmen changed their plans when they learned there was to be an initiation at the club last night. Approximately 300 men had left the building a short time before the attempted holdup.

Club officials said there was $400 in the safe in the building.

Ode to Bartender Who Handles New Problems With The Same Old Skill

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—When I first put on long pants and thus qualified for admission to the bar the bartender was a plain man with simple duties. He had to know how to draw beer with the proper depth of collar, and, on the intellectual side, he had to be able to read labels so as to distinguish between rye and bourbon, even though both bottles were filled from the one keg.

He had to be a durable listener, able to put in, at the proper moment in the recital of a customer's domestic woes, with a sympathetic, "well, that's the way life goes."

And, of course, he had to know how to make change and keep a mental file of those patrons who had steady jobs and were entitled to credit, and to what extent, between paydays.

Beyond these gifts and an ability to keep peace by authority or restore it with his beer hammer, the bartender had no other requirements to meet.

There is an old superstition that he was also a philosopher by night and a physician in the morning, but that is only superstition. The medicine which he dispensed with soothing assurances in the morning never did any good. The patients only thought it did because they had reached that point at which a man can't feel any worse and must get better or die right away. Those who didn't die got better and gave the bartender credit.

I suppose most of those old bartenders are in their graves by now or demoted to kitchen police in the new saloons, for the new crop are young men, many of them graduates of the speakeasies, and they have problems which the veterans of that day would be unable to solve and would scorn to consider.

There are the sidecar, for example, composed of cretaceous, brandy and lemon juice; the Alexander, of creme de cacao, sweet cream and gin; the honeydew, of gin, strained honey and the juice of a lime, and the pink lady made of shaving lotion, buttermilk and strawberry extract. There are

And speaking of ladies, at the bar, modern bartender's clientele is drawn largely from the staff side, and traffic with this type of trade, with ladies pouring their troubles and gossip into his ear, has made a hobby of him. He is also compelled to intervene in their fights without resort to his bungstarter, of which he has none, anyway, because lady-lushes do not go for beer—a fact which our brewers will be glad to avow, as it relieves them of blame for lady-lushing in saloons.

He is a cross between a salad cook, a pharmacist, a psychoanalyst and a banker, for he must cash checks and keep up of credit ratings, and I am not opposed to a belief that he even practices massage on his customers on his own time.

But I am not protesting or lamenting a departed mode. I am just making observations on the passing show.

Kennedy Ideas On Court Presentation, Apparel Stir Argument In Britain

—By DEWITT MacKENZIE

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—(AP)—His excellency, the new American ambassador to the Court of St. James, Joseph P. Kennedy, has precipitated among our British cousins a democratization argument which has caused shockingly high blue blood pressure.

The debate revolves about Kennedy's democratic ideas in connection with America's annual participation in the pomp and splendor of the royal courts.

First off he startled England (to put it mildly) and shocked the "four thousand" of this country no end by barring presentation at court to United States women and debutantes who were merely visitors to Britain and not residents there.

In other words he abolished a cherished custom involving the yearly race of our fair ones for the privilege of curtsying before royalty and basking in the glow of the queen's big Kohinoor diamond.

Kennedy said he considered "undemocratic" the practice of American ambassadors in selecting every year a "small number of young ladies from a long list, very few, if any, of whom he has ever seen."

He didn't add, as he might have done, that the difficulty of selecting the few from among so many heavily sponsored ladies also was a terrific headache.

Came the big night and the ambassador further challenged custom by appearing at court in ordinary evening garb, instead of the regulation silk knee-breeches. He didn't announce whether it was democracy or discretion which impelled this.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express added fuel to the controversial fire by coming out with an editorial—amazing for England—calling for democratization of the royal courts. The Express, which circulates throughout the kingdom, demanded: "Must the hard-working wage-earning class be denied the right of the sight of the king and queen on such occasions simply because they do not know the right people to present them? Not the courts but the presenting aspects of the courts, as a field for influence and position, should be put out of cultivation. (This refers to the fact that nobody can go to court without being presented by some highly placed person who already has introduced to this charmed circle—D.M.)

"King George should let that nonsense go. The wage-earning section of the people are as good as the alleged upper crust. The tylist at her desk is more useful than the rich man's daughter looting at a cocktail bar."

Actually there's a good deal more to the regal display in courts than meets the eye. Most Britons will tell you that you cannot disassociate royalty from its trappings and still maintain its prestige.

The king and queen are human, but symbols of the might and spirit of empire.

As a matter of fact, the average Englishman wants to look far up to his sovereign, and revels in the traditional display of grandeur.

Further, the Briton will point to the vital necessity of maintaining the prestige of the throne among the haughty princes of India. These great potentates bow to nothing but the king-emperor. So after all, the glitter of the royal courts are a part of the cement which holds together the empire.

MAXIE'S MANAGER
GROUNDED
BY N. Y.
BOARD
BECAUSE HE ISN'T POLITE.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK—(AP)—After pains-taking research, I am able to disclose today the real reason why Joe Jacobs the holler guy, is "on the ground" with the local boxing commission and may even stop there for purposes of the Schmeling-Louis brawl next month. He isn't polite. He just isn't that's all.

This is a pretty serious charge, I know, but Commissioner Bill Brown, who is utterly fearless, is ready to stand behind it. In fact, it's on the commissioner's say-so that Schmeling's holler guy is officially, and technically out of range just at a time when something may go wrong at and during the prize fight thus demanding the attention of a good, reliable holler specialist.

Incidentally the occasion in question will be a very good time for everything to go right. The place that night will be overrun with members of the German-American Bund the kind of gent who go clumping solemnly about the bier stubs of the Yorkville section in businesslike battalions and are likely to be made immediately unhappy in the event of a slight misunderstanding.

It would indeed be a nice occasion on which to avoid one but unfortunately the heavyweight championship and big-name heavy-weight fights in general are not noteworthy for arriving at a given conclusion without extra-curricular agitation of some sort. There was for example the time when Dempsey was pitched out of the ring by Furpo and had to be pitched back by admiring members of the press.

An impulsive addition to the program not in any way provided for by the Marquis of Queensbury.

After that there was the fair-outrout outcry that summarily ended the Dempsey-Sharkey fight in New York and within a month or so the long-count of the immortal seventh round between Dempsey and Tunney in Chicago.

The next year Mr. Tunney by way of successfully abandoning a lowbred business for a life of usefulness on Park avenue inattentively mislaid a thumb in Heeney's eye and, of course, while mercifully ignoring Phil Scott and his international pangs below the belt we mustn't forget the two occasions on which Schmeling himself engaged Jack Sharkey for the championship.

One produced a decision—for Sharkey—so greatly at variance with the views of many witnesses as to leave their faith in human nature permanently unpaired. The other saw Schmeling actually earn the title while keeping the floor away from the back of his neck with the aid of his elbow.

In the midst of a pummeling he had suddenly sunk upon the canvas seemingly in great pain which was nonplussed the referee that he spent the next five minutes paging ringside testimony from practically everybody except the house electrician.

It was a situation that called for an alert and ready tongue and our man Jacobs responded to such purpose that they finally went over to the stricken corner and lifted Schmeling's hand on high in

Red Sox On Top

Beat Senators to Go Game and a Half Ahead of Field in American League.

By HENRY SUPER
NEW YORK—(AP)—When the 1938 baseball season opened experts said the Boston Red Sox had no hustle—that they were just a group of high-priced ball players going through the motions.

But today the Red Sox, on whom owner Tom Yawkey has spent upwards of $4,000,000 trying to win a pennant were out in front of the American League race by a game and a half.

Increases Lead.
While the Yankees, Indians and Senators were waging a private dog fight for the lead, the Red Sox were quietly winning games. They jammed into the lead on Saturday and increased it yesterday.

Two of Yawkey's highest-priced players—Lefty Grove and Jimmy Foss—have been great factors in the Red Sox drive an eight-game winning streak on which they rode west today.

Foss who along with Johnny Marmour cost Yawkey $150,000 and played in 1935, leads both leagues in homers with eight and tops the runs-batted-in column with 39.

Grove, who cost $105,000 in 1933 has won six straight games for the best pitching record in the circuit.

Grove beat the Senators yesterday 4-3. Although reached for 13 hits he bore down in the clinches to win a pitching battle from Monte Weaver. Foss got two hits and batted in a run. The defeat dropped the Senators to fourth behind the idle Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees who are tied for second.

In the only other American League game the St. Louis Browns beat the Detroit Tigers 4-1 in a five-inning game called because of rain.

The New York Giants idle since Wednesday, had their game with the Philadelphia Phillies rained out again. The Pittsburgh Pirates took a 11-inning game from the Chicago Cubs 4-3 to move into second place, 5 1/2 games behind the Giants. Johnny Dickshot's single with Arky Vaughan on second base sent home the winning run.

The Boston Bees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 10-7 and took over sixth place. The St. Louis Cardinals won a 10-inning 12-11 decision from the Cincinnati Reds.

token of his glorious, uphill triumph

IT SEEMS particularly inopportune therefore that Jacobs has been so ill-advised as to lay himself open to these serious charges now and so, wishing to confirm my worst fears instantly I had emissaries set forth to interrogate Mr. Brown since the commissioner and the writer do not even bow formally as we pass. Yes Jacobs had allowed the commissioner to travel all the way from Garrison, N. Y. to Orange, N. J., to see Jacobs' bloke Tony Galento at a time when the latter had been taken unexpectedly absent.

Moreover, the commissioner charged Jacobs with trying to take boxing back to where it was 30 years ago and Jacobs had rejoined shamelessly that he wasn't in boxing 30 years ago but the commissioner was.

At this point in the arraignment one emissary pointed out that known mobmen and admitted no-goods were licensed as managers and seconds here.

Yeh said Mr. Brown instantly. But they're polite. Nothing else was said. There seemed nothing else to say.

So Mansfield'll Be Ready Today!

FREMONT — (AP) — Tiffin, Fosteria, Findlay and Fremont teams are ready for the opening of the Ohio State league baseball season Wednesday, club officials reported at a meeting here, while Mansfield was expected to have an entry ready today and Marion later in the week.

This picture was made in the second round of the Tony Galento-Nathan Mann fight in New York just before "Two Ton" Tony unexpectedly floored Mann for the count. The saloon keeper's victory removed the New Haven, Conn., heavyweight from the list of challengers for the heavyweight title.

Hurls No-Hit Game In District Tourney

Russell Sheriff of Bellville Sets Woodville Down Without a Hit Or Run At Tiffin.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.
BELLVILLE high school seems to boast of a pretty promising pitcher in a boy named Russ Sheriff, who played quite a bit of ball on the Mansfield sandlots last summer. Sheriff helped himself to a no-hit, no-run game in the district Class B tournament in Tiffin last week.

Bellville taking the measure of Woodville 1 to 0. Only three men reached first, and not a single ball was hit out of the infield. Nice work boy. Although piloting the state champions in 1937 and a district winner last season Lou Hitt has quit his Hamilton high coaching job to engage in the insurance business in Louisville.

Sandusky high did just what was expected Saturday when it run off with the Buckeye league track title, scoring 77 points to 63 for Fremont, which finished second.

Thus victory makes the Blue Streaks the favorites for the district competition slated in Fremont Saturday. Joe Heving's poor job of relief pitching against the Chusos the other day not only lost the ball game, but also his job. He has been released to Milwaukee and probably never to return. Heving's no kid, you know.

Findlay had reason to celebrate again Saturday. That city's Forest Pressnell won his fourth game for the Dodgers as he stopped Boston 10-2 with four hits. Ol' Bill McKeechne must of grabbed his teeth when his Reds permitted the Curds to knot the score 5-1 in the ninth with a 4-run rally, and then lose it in the 10th. That happened Saturday, too.

W/HAT'S all this we heard about the Preackness being the place where Fighting Fox and Bull Lea would come back? By how many lengths did Dauber win? First Baseman Dick Seibert whom Columbus traded to the Phillies for three players once had ambitions to be a minister and attended the same Lutheran seminary in Ft. Wayne that Bill Wambaganes and Max Carey studied. About time for some big league club to take up the contract of Buddy Pamelee. He hung up No. 5 for Minneapolis Saturday.

Watch out for Helen! Didn't Mrs. Moody win the London net affair without dropping a set? See where Toledo Scott won another track title—the Miami University relay.

Wild Bill, Rex Even So Far

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—Wild Bill Cummings and Rex Mays, California speedster will race the third and deciding heat of a challenge match on the Indianapolis speedway sometime this week, it was announced today.

They set the fastest average competitive time ever made on the two and a half mile brick oval in two 15-mile heats yesterday. The first won by Cummings averaged 119.840 miles an hour. The second won by Mays averaged 118.126. The third was postponed because of rain. Both drove four-cylindered Millers.

The race resulted from a debate as to which is the better driver. A $1,000 bet still is in the balance for the deciding race which will be a 25-mile affair.

Showers keep Athletes Idle

Rain spoiled the sports program in Mansfield and vicinity over the week-end. None of the games scheduled either Saturday or Sunday were played because of the intermittent showers. The golf courses also were deserted because of the rain.

Streaks Sport Formidable Record In District Event

But May Find It Difficult to Win High Place In Fremont Carnival Saturday.

MANSFIELD high school thru-clads have quite a record to protect in the district championships to be run off in Fremont next Saturday.

Coach Harry Mehock's Red Streaks have finished worse than second only twice since the district elimination was inaugurated in 1926. Mansfield has won the championship three in the 12 years, and finished as runner-up on seven occasions.

Only Sandusky has won more district championships than the Red Streaks, but has not been a contender as often as Mansfield. The Blue Streaks have won the title six times, and finished second twice.

Mansfield finished as runner-up to Lima Central in 1927, losing a tie for the title by a mere half point. The Streaks annexed the crowns the next two years, and was runner-up behind Sandusky in 1930.

The Men of Mehock took runner-up honors the next three years and won their last district title in 1934. The Streaks again finished second in 1936 and repeated as runner-up last year at Sandusky.

Mansfield's chances this year are difficult to define, but, judging from tradition, the Red Streaks will be heavily involved in the point battle in Fremont Saturday.

Here's the Class A record 1926—Norwalk 1, Sandusky 2. 1927—Lima Central 1, Mansfield 2. 1928—Mansfield 1, Lima Central 2. 1929—Mansfield 1, Lima South 2. 1930—Sandusky 1, Mansfield 2. 1931—Sandusky 1, Mansfield 2. 1932—Sandusky 1, Mansfield 2. 1933—Fremont 1, Mansfield 2. 1934—Mansfield 1, Sandusky 2. 1935—Sandusky 1, Fremont 2. 1936—Sandusky 1, Mansfield 2. 1937—Sandusky 1, Mansfield 2.

Loss Last Dual Meet On Schedule

MEHOCK's spikesters completed their schedule of dual meets at Akron Saturday, and bowed to the strong Garfield Presidents, 63 1/2 to 54 1/2, during a steady rain storm.

The Red Streaks, who won only one dual meet this season to complete the poorest record ever made by a Mehock coached squad, won six out of 14 firsts, but placed second in only four events.

In addition to the relay teams, the Mansfield winners were John Linta who won the pole vault at nine feet without even trying and also the low hurdles Mattin Henke, half mile and Starks, 100-yard dash Heiser, high hurdles, Donnan, mile, McMullen 440, and Dials, high jump, picked up seconds.

Dauber Pick At Belmont

Shows Plenty of Class in Winning Preakness.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Lawrin, Stagehand and Dauber—there's the big three of the three-year-old turf division.

Lawrin won the Kentucky derby. Stagehand came through in the Santa Anita derby and handicapper and last Saturday entered the select group with a galloping score in the muddy Preakness—richest race of the year exclusively for three-year-olds.

Dauber has bowed to both of his rivals but off his performance in the Preakness he appears worthy of giving them a race when they hook up again probably in Arlington park classic late in July. The blazed face chestnut from William duPont jr.'s Foxcatcher farm dropped a half-length decision to Stagehand in the Santa Anita derby and trailed Lawrin by a length in the Kentucky classic after Stagehand had been forced out by illness.

Dauber's next start will be in the $50,000 added Belmont stakes at Belmont park June 4. Since the race is a mile and a half and neither Stagehand nor Lawrin is eligible he figures to be the shortest kind of a favorite.

The Foxcatcher colt needed to be a mudder in the Preakness. Not since Nellie Morse won in 1924 had weather conditions been so bad for Pimlico's rich race. A biting rain made 25,000 fans uncomfortable and turned the racing strip into a quagmire. Yet the mile and three sixteenths in 1:59.45 only three seconds slower than the track record established three days before by Pompoon in the Dixie handicap.

Dauber broke slowly as usual and was next-to-last going around the first turn. He still trailed far back at the half-mile post. Then Maurice (Moose) Peters 21-year-old Brantford N. D. jockey, called on the big chestnut. He quickly overhauled all except Menon, then started tossing mud in to the face of Hal Price Headless star as they straightened out for the run to the judges.

EXTENDS DRIVE TO COURT AIDS

County Bar Association Sets Up Restrictions for Probate Deputies.

Acting on the request of Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, the Richmond County Bar association today has outlined restrictions for deputies in the probate court who have been engaged in what was considered to be illegal practice of law.

The move was a part of the association's drive against illegal practice which resulted in the granting of an injunction in common pleas court last month, enjoining 41 real estate brokers and notaries from engaging in acts considered the work of an attorney.

A committee headed by Atty. Stuart H. Cramer reported on an examination of the probate code which states that deputies are not permitted to draw up applications for appointment of administrators, guardians or trustees, or papers for the probate of wills. The law also forbids the giving of legal advice by deputies.

Judge Anderson said he would advise his deputies, Ralph Hardy, R. K. Clark, Mrs. Mary Depler and Mrs. Ruth McCann, of the association's findings and post notices listing the restrictions in the probate court room.

Atty. R. E. Hutchison, president of the county bar association, pointed out that neither the common pleas nor municipal court attaches performed duties considered the work of lawyers, while probate deputies here had violated the code for a number of years.

CUMMINGS ASKS FUNDS TO OPEN TRUST LAW QUIZ

Attorney General Seeking $500,000 to Probe U. S. Monopoly Practices.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Funds for a comprehensive study of the anti-trust laws by the Department of Justice and other governmental agencies were asked today by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Appearing before the house appropriations committee, Cummings sought a deficiency appropriation of at least $500,000 as recommended by President Roosevelt in his anti-monopoly message to congress last month.

At the same time, members of the committee disclosed that the president plans to transmit to congress a supplemental budget estimate within the next few days for the funds sought by Cummings.

Broadens Study. In urging that the Department of Justice make the study, Mr. Roosevelt also suggested that the Federal Trade and the Securities and Exchange commissions co-operate.

He proposed that the inquiry embrace study of the following:

1. Need for improvement of anti-trust procedure.
2. Revision of existing law to place the burden of proof upon corporations suspected of violations.
3. Additional power for the justice department and the SEC to investigate violators.
4. More rigid scrutiny by the FTC and the SEC of corporate mergers, consolidations and methods for breaking up interlocking relationships.
5. Possibility that investment trusts, including those of insurance companies, should be brought under stricter regulation by the SEC; and
6. Greater control over bank holding companies.

The Bank Holding Company bill, supported by the president, was shelved last week by the senate. An SEC report which was two years in the making was transmitted to congress several days ago, embracing recommendations for control of investment trusts.

The proposed anti-trust study would be culminated with a report to the next congress under the president's recommendations. A congressional inquiry also has been proposed both in the senate and the house.

Thieves Get $119 Loot In Raids on Three Residences

Police today were investigating the looting of three Mansfield residences over the week-end in which thieves made off with $119 in cash.

Officers were called to 300 Ruth avenue, late Saturday when Mrs. Max Mosberg arrived home to find the side door of her residence standing open.

Investigation disclosed that $80 had been taken from a dresser drawer in an upstairs bedroom. Police said the burglar gained entrance to the house by drilling several holes in the door panel and then reached in to turn the lock.

At the home of Theodore Brown, 253 East Fourth street, police said $30 was taken while the family was away last night. Entrance to the house was gained by a cellar window.

Mrs. Ida Mohler, 22 1/2 South Park street, told police Saturday that someone entered her apartment while she was in an adjoining apartment, and took $9 that was lying on a bedroom dresser.

OUTLINES OWN ANNUITY PLAN

Westinghouse to Supplement Federal Program as Soon as 'U. S. Plan's Stabilized.'

Officials of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing today announced the company would supplement the federal social security plan with its own annuity program "as soon as the government's plan has been stabilized."

W. G. Marshall, vice president in charge of industrial relations, said at Pittsburgh that the plan would provide security for employees of the company who left the organization before retirement age.

"Each year of the plan's operation would be considered as a complete transaction," Marshall said, "and the company would provide established employees an increasing investment."

The firm, he pointed out, will make its contribution out of current income and the same process would be followed the next year.

Last year 145 employees were added to the retirement roll under the Westinghouse Annuity Plan which was in force several years before being supplanted by the federal security program. This addition brought the retirement list to 1,266 with annuity payments of $445,651 in 1937.

NLRB WINS IN SUPREME COURT

Tribunal Holds Board Given Power to Reinstate Union Workers Discharged.

been refused reinstatement following a strike of telegraphers in the firm's San Francisco office in 1935, because of their union activity. The supreme court today reversed this verdict and ordered enforcement of the board order.

The circuit court held that the board exceeded its authority in ordering reinstatement, with back pay, of five telegraphers found by the board to have been refused reinstatement, following a strike of telegraphers in the firm's San Francisco office in 1935.

The strike occurred in October, 1935, but was called off after only two days. When it was concluded, the company offered reinstatement to all but 11 of 60 telegraphers who struck. Of the 11, the board found that six were inefficient operators but that the other five were Grade A operators excluded solely because of their union activity.

The board ordered the company to cease all discrimination against the American Radio Telegraphists' association, of which the five were members, and directed that the five be reinstated. The board applied to the circuit court for a compliance decree but the application was rejected.

The board's attorneys told the high court that reversal of the circuit court decision and affirmation of the power to compel reinstatement of strikers was a vital phase of the board's powers to force employers to put an end to anti-union efforts.

Each of the three circuit judges who considered the board's petition for a compliance decree held different views on the matter, but two of them reached the same conclusion that in this instance the board had exceeded its powers.

The court, at the request of the government, ordered the third circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia to show cause why it should not permit the National Labor Relations board to recall its order against the Republic Steel Corporation.

After the circuit court had refused last Friday to authorize withdrawal of the litigation, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and Charles Fahy, general counsel of the labor board, asked the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel the desired action.

Withdrawal of the order, directing the corporation to reinstate 5,000 workers who struck last summer, was decided upon after the supreme court on April 25 had condemned procedure followed by the secretary of agriculture in reducing charges authorized at the Kansas City stockyards.

Republic Steel contended the order against it was issued without permitting arguments in reply. It contended this was not proper procedure.

2-WAY THREAT PERILS JUNE ADJOURNMENT

Partisan Fights, Expansion of Roosevelt Program Seen Menacing Congress.

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—Plans of congressional leaders for early June adjournment were clouded in doubt today by the threat of bitter sectional and partisan conflict, and possible expansion of the White House legislative program.

Even though congress has enacted far-reaching measures revising tax laws inaugurating a new farm relief plan and initiating a huge naval expansion program, other important bills must be disposed of before adjournment.

President Roosevelt himself, it appeared, may hold the key to adjournment. The goal of congressional leaders is June 6.

Press Reorganization.

Revival of government reorganization legislation, which provoked the most bitter fight of the session, apparently rested with Mr. Roosevelt. While leaders in both senate and house appeared satisfied to allow the controversy to go over, close advisers of the president are pressing for action.

House leaders have advised the White House that they now have the votes to pass a reorganization bill, asserting that at least 30 members who voted to recommit the measure now will support it.

At the same time, the house leadership insists that the problem rests with the senate. Two reorganization bills passed by the house last year now are pending in the senate.

The administration battle for rational minimum wage and maximum hours legislation alone made all adjournment plans uncertain. House passage of the Norton measure next week is held certain. The senate having passed a different bill the differences must be composed in conference between the two branches.

Southern Democrats have indicated that they will make a spectacular fight against the legislation, unless differentials are granted the south. The house bill provides no differentials.

Wage-hour advocates also were disturbed by reports that northern senators who oppose the legislation, will seek to tie the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill to wage-hour legislation and thus provoke a fight which might last for weeks. The anti-lynching bill provoked a long filibuster in the senate earlier in the session until it was sidetracked.

Mr. Roosevelt, it is expected, will be called upon to settle the controversy between the house and senate. The senate bill's proposal for creation of a board which would have authority to grant differentials.

HUNT FUNDS FOR OHIO'S NEEDY

Lawmakers Seek $17,000,000 to Solve Relief Crisis Confronting Cities.

Representatives of the municipalities, now more inclined to shoulder a larger share of the relief financing, having agreed tentatively on a plan for doing this by levying local taxes similar to those now collected by the state.

7 Bills in Hopper.

These principles are embodied in about seven bills already prepared for consideration.

The bills also provide for a state relief director who would prescribe regulations for administration of relief and for expenditure of the funds granted to the local governments. Cities which refused to obey the regulations might be denied state aid.

The administrations, as it did in the previous session, is expected to insist that the local governments share at least half the cost of relief.

In addition to the proposed duplication of state taxes, county commissioners might be authorized to obtain additional funds by requiring upward the valuation of tangible personal property.

Senator Harold D. Nichols (D-Clermont), relief expert for the "hatchet" group in the senate, was reported to be toying with this idea.

Figures prepared by the state tax commission indicated an additional $12,333,000 a year could be obtained by levying taxes on 100 per cent of the value of tangible personal property. At present part of it is listed at 50 per cent and part at 70 per cent of value for taxation purposes.

The legislature, coming back two and a half months after adjournment of its last special session, finds the state relief load at approximately 120,500 cases. This compares with about 63,000 cases as of last Nov. 29, when the previous special session was convened to tackle the relief problem and appropriations for state departments.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson estimated that 84 per cent of the relief clients were concentrated in 21 urban counties, the majority of which exhausted their state grants for the needy. He said 12 other counties did not have funds sufficient for the remainder of the year. The auditor estimated 50 counties would not need additional relief funds this year.

While Gov. Martin L. Davey's proclamation convening the legislature mentioned relief only, observers said there was a strong possibility the session would be opened to consideration of several other subjects.

These include, conforming Ohio's statutes with the New Deal's proposed spending-lending program so that the state could obtain maximum benefit of federal funds, exemption of real estate improvements from taxation for five years to encourage building and creation of a state commission with authority to launch a $10,000,000 program welfare institution improvement.

Kallmerten Says Davey Didn't Talk About Party Affairs.

E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman, had been delegated today by Gov. Martin L. Davey to obtain county relief data for the governor to present to the state legislature which is in session this week.

Democratic chairman from all parts of the state conferred with Davey Saturday at the governor's mansion on the relief problem, but Kallmerten said he was unable then to submit information on the county relief picture.

"It was a surprise request and I was unprepared," Kallmerten said today. He added that he would confer with Mayor C. M. Hunter and county commissioners about the relief needs and submit figures to the governor today or tomorrow.

Although Kallmerten has been mentioned as a likely successor to Francis Poulson as state Democratic chairman, he said there was no discussion of the matter during his visit Saturday with Davey.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

FOR two days it rained. It started early in the morning, and every little while heavy showers made the nearby fields a dancing, grayish fog a foot or more above the ground. I looked out the west window and smiled contentedly. How much we farmers needed this rain!

The fields were getting dry, and some places along the hedges where the shrubs were drawing moisture rapidly, I saw the heavy growth of grass wither and lie closer to the ground. Plowing soil for corn had become a heavy task for the most ambitious team. The seed already planted would start unevenly—the peas I had covered lightly remained just as I dropped them, without a hint of moisture. Pastures had given up their tender green for more somber color. The moist hollows of cultivated fields stood out like etchings against the lighter soil of higher ground.

I stepped over the white-checked trunk of a tulip tree, uprooted by the ice storm, weeks ago. Before I was aware, I found myself surrounded by its top of short branches and tender leaves. These leaves, with the outer, central lobe cut off showed the most delicate, soft translucent green I ever looked upon—and all across their green loveliness white drops of rain still clung and made a picture for an artist.

Even in these times of stress and want, the woods and fields "are open to the poorest corner."

I went into the dipping woods this afternoon. It was pleasant to step upon the spongy floor of last year's leaves like soft wet tags and hear the water slosh at every step. The earlier wild flowers—spring beauties, trillium, bachelor's buttons, sweet william—seem to lift their drooping, seeded heads, before they left the scene to harder plants.

I heard the mournful, broken cry of a night owl from the thick dark woodland. Solitary, to be sure—what mate would answer such an ominous, foreboding call?

25 PERISH IN BLAZING HOTEL

Rescuers Search Ruins of 5-Story Building in Hunt for Score Missing.

He said a messboy in the basement kitchen screamed "Oh Lawdy fire," and he felt a muffled blast from below.

Almost immediately, he said, smoke and flames streaked up. "I ran to the elevator," he said, "and tried to get to warn some of the guests, but the flames spread so quick I had to jump from the elevator cage on the second floor and run."

The man on the switchboard (Berry) got burned trying to ring the phones. There wasn't anyone got out except those who jumped or got down the fire escapes.

Firemen found one man dead half way across a window sill. His pocketbook was partly burned and only the name—Roberts—was found on a telephone bill.

Firemen described the death of what was apparently a family, father, mother, young son and daughter.

The woman was found sitting in a chair. The little girl knelt by the bed. The man and small boy were lying on the bed.

The hotel, an old structure, had been remodelled in recent years. It was situated near the center of the Atlanta railroad yards, about five blocks from Five Points, the heart of the city.

Chief Parker, a grey-haired veteran described the fire as "the deadliest in the history of Atlanta."

He said it was the third in the last 30 years on the site. The block burned in 1903. The hotel was rebuilt and a basement fire damaged the structure several years later.

Bottles in a liquor store in the front of the hotel were broken by today's fire and the alcoholic stream added fuel to the flames.

Mr. Holloman says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay more and take the real choice lots of tobacco. That's why we tobacco planters, who know tobacco quality inside and out, make Camel our cigarette. Then we're sure we're smoking finer, COSTLIER tobaccos, and they sure make a big difference!"

"I'm a tobacco planter," says Mr. T. Strickland, who sold his highest grade tobacco to Camels. "Last year those Camel buyers bought up the finest lots of my tobacco. And they sure bid up to get them. There's a big difference in those expensive Camel tobaccos—so I smoke Camels myself. And there's your reason why most planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camel cigarettes, and you can bet those Camel buyers paid top prices for them. It's no wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Camels! Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow tobacco know tobacco."

Air Mail Direct From Mansfield.

NATION-WIDE observance of Air Mail week, in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of air mail service in the United States, provides opportunity to concentrate attention on another of the amazing achievements of recent years.

When it is considered that scheduled air mail service was started within a few years after the Wright brothers' successful experimentation with heavier-than-air planes, the progress of aerial navigation within the past two decades must be regarded as astounding.

Residents of cities such as Mansfield, which have thus far had no direct contact with local dispatching of mail by air, have been somewhat slow to adopt this modern method of expediting delivery of letters—although use of air mail facilities to distant points has been steadily growing.

It is estimated that the volume of air mail originating in Mansfield is now slightly more than one-third of the amount required as a minimum to justify designation as an air mail feeder port. Experience has been that designation of new air mail ports has tripled the volume originating in those cities—which would provide the required quota for Mansfield.

The special air mail flight scheduled for Mansfield next Thursday, with a commemorative cachet available for the occasion, should serve as an indication of local interest in making such service regularly available at the earliest possible time.

There is no question, of course, but that Mansfield will eventually be in line for this progressive step, as the location of this city makes it a logical air mail port for this north-central Ohio area. Evidence of public interest this week may bring the accomplishment earlier than anticipated—although there is still the problem of securing hard-surfaced runways, approved beacons, lighting and service equipment at the Mansfield municipal airport.

Meanwhile, make use of air mail for the special flight next Thursday—thus co-operating in observance of Air Mail week and furthering the project of having Mansfield designated as an air mail port.

Teach Children Self-Reliance.

SPECIAL "weeks" of various kinds are so numerous that some of them pass without attracting much notice. "Better Parenthood Week," however, left at least a few ideas that are worth remembering.

Some fathers and mothers seem to think that, in order to be good parents, they must continue guiding and safeguarding their children even after the latter are grown up. This is a great mistake, says Dr. Edmund E. Day, president of Cornell university.

"As rapidly as possible," he insisted, "parents must transfer their responsibilities to the children themselves. Parents succeed as they work themselves out of their job."

It isn't enough to have love for children, a sense of fairness, patience and sympathetic understanding. Even with such blessings a child may grow up unable to make his way in life. The parents should be alert to discover the talents of their children, and help them develop their own personalities and powers.

The sooner parents are able to act merely as friendly advisers of their children, rather than directors or bosses, the more successful they have been with their job.

Fruits, Nuts and Berries.

AS PART of the wild life conservation program in Wisconsin the state is setting out 1,000,000 nut and fruit bearing trees, vines and shrubs this spring and will plant 2,000,000 more in the autumn. In addition, it is planting 600,000 hardwoods. The purpose is to provide shade along trout streams and natural food and cover for birds and animals.

The state conservation department is experimenting with more than 100 nut and berry plants, seeking the ones best adapted for certain places and purposes.

There is a hint in this work for the private citizen with a yard or a few acres of his own. If he wants more birds around the place to help keep down insect pests, and for the enjoyment of their songs and interest-time ways, he can plant berry-bearing shrubs and fruit trees. Quite apart from their usefulness, such plants will reward the planter with their beauty and variety.

Men's Summer Attire.

CIVILIZATION is a strange world that makes people wear uncomfortable clothes. Especially men. It used to be the other way. Women's clothing was cumbersome, stuffy and hot. But after centuries of self-oppression, women have finally emerged into sartorial freedom and comfort. Men, on the other hand, even though to a large extent they design women's clothes, seem unable to do the same for themselves.

Their clothing is not so comfortable as it was in the last century—not quite so hot and heavy and impeding free movement. But it's a comparative matter. And anyone who takes a good look at a well-dressed woman on a hot spring day, and then takes a similarly searching look at a supposedly well-dressed man, will get the point.

Such comparisons inevitably force themselves on rebellious manhood with the first warm days of spring. There will soon be relief at the beach and in some other outdoor sports. But elsewhere men mostly will continue hot and unhappy, in clothing that any painter, sculptor or hygienist knows doesn't make sense.

It can scarcely be escaped that La Follette and La Guardia will gain recognition as the la-la boys.

When the bees become better educated they probably won't be so rough with the drones.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THE next presidential election (1940) depends on the depression. The depression probably will be ended by then. Thus, look out for Roosevelt. That is the word spreading now.

And, from most indications, that is true.

Both the conservatives and the disaffected progressives seem to have sprung their bolts too soon.

But some new figure may arise. If a man should arise who could consolidate all factions except the rank reactionaries, President Roosevelt could not be a candidate for re-election. He has proved an unwise chooser of men. Yet, by his own dint of power, he has carried his ideas on—at terrible sacrifice, of course. In the last two years, he has suffered more reverses than successes.

And why? He is attracted by showy men. He has permitted the real workers, the true executives, the loyal adherents to his ideal to be subordinated to men who in the ultimate test of battle prove weaklings.

His Failing

President Roosevelt is not alone in his failing. Leaders of all times have been betrayed by their peculiar choice of lieutenants. And business executives are especially prone to it.

There are splendid executives in the government. But a Roosevelt is not one to put his faith in them, except on rare occasions. They do not appeal to his eye.

Nor has the president the courage, in the face of the split in the Democratic party, to face down the politicians or to exterminate the reactionary bosses, such as Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

This leader of the Democrats in New Jersey, one of the chief labor states, is a man who is so fastidiously anti-labor (and anti-New Deal) that even conservative Democrats blush when they speak of him.

The president could bring about Hague's end in a short time, if he put up a fight. But it is strange that Mr. Roosevelt has put up no fight against those who curb or destroy civil liberties. Even his closest followers are puzzled by this.

But in Essence—

Despite this failing in the choice of lieutenants, President Roosevelt remains the leading figure in the nation.

Senator Robert M. La Follette makes a valiant fight for civil liberties and labor, but his brother, Governor Philip, in launching a third party, spoke disparagingly of government relief. And, whether we will or not, relief will become a paramount issue. It will be federalized. And there will be a cabinet department of welfare. Congress will be forced into that by events themselves.

Frightened by Tory attacks some years ago, the president destroyed a large part of the federal relief program. As a result, there is chaos in many places today, and the cost to the government in the end will be far more.

Cleveland has been the most widely advertised place in regard to the relief crisis. But there are many Clevelands, many cities in which human misery exists because relief has been shunted by the federal government to the state government, and by the state government to the county and municipal governments.

The care of a nation's people is the problem of the government of that nation, as much so as the protection of the country by means of an army and a navy, as much so as the protection of large corporations by means of tariffs, or the protection of the currency or prices by means of huge purchases of silver and gold.

It is cruelly fantastic to place the life-and-death fate of millions of people into the hands of minor local politicians, whose political units have neither the machinery nor the credit facilities to provide for the hapless victims of our socio-economic system.

SEE WHO'S PLEASED!

Probes Serve to Expose Abuses

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—A congressional investigation is an enjoyable proceeding to anyone who chances to be in sympathy with it. Such an inquiry is mightily irritating, however, to one whose sympathies are contrari-wise.

An occasional legislative quiz really is impartial. Usually its purpose is to make one case, one way or the other. It is, in short, a prosecution, with no judge to insist that the defense be given even a modicum of fair play.

NOT AS IN COURT

In a court of law, if a listener believes the prisoner at the bar to be a guilty miscreant, he (the listener-in) is likely to be fretted by the technicalities which seem to favor the guilty.

The accused interest in a congressional investigation is permitted to avail itself of no legalities. Witnesses against it are given free rein. Witnesses in its favor are "panned" mercilessly. Now and then one of them stands on his constitutional right not to incriminate himself, but this virtual admission that he is a criminal is not particularly good defensive testimony.

Well, as previously remarked, if the listener-in believes that the accused interest OUGHT to be convicted, he warmly indorses this procedure.

RESULTS!

It gets results. There is no mistake about it. Congressional inquisitors do not send anyone actually to jail (except once in a while, a recalcitrant witness) but they do uncover a lot of large-scale abuses that the courts cannot expose, for one reason or another. Thus the way is paved for remedial legislation.

Briefly, what a congressional investigation seeks is publicity.

WATCH 'EM SQUIRM!

It is desirable. It makes the average listener-in wiggle with satisfaction to observe representatives of the selfish. Troy interests squirm on the congressional investigatorial witness stand, and to hear them complain that they never could be compelled to answer such questions before a judicial tribunal.

Oh, I am a believer in congressional investigations. Nevertheless, now and then there is one which verges on the asinine.

THEY EXTERMINATE

Most legislative investigations exterminate that which ought to be exterminated—as in the Teapot Dome inquiry, for example. At long intervals there is an inquiry which aims not to exterminate but to build up.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler's railroad "probe" has been a specimen. Our transportation system is "in the soup," to express it mildly.

The rail lines are gasping to be fished out of it.

The situation involves rails, autos, inland and coastal water transport and aviation.

AS STEWART SEES IT

In this group the railroads are the basic industry. They (the managements) always have hated Senator Wheeler, as a rip-roaring radical.

His publicity suits them at present.

It seems to me reasonable. I like his line of publicity.

But I do not like the brand of publicity of Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, who seeks, through his congressional committee on so-called propaganda, to ruzzle the press.

That Debate Over Helium.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Helium is an inert gas that neither burns nor explodes, but it has heated up a controversy, nevertheless, between placid Secretary of State Hull and not so placid Secretary Ickes of the interior department. The German Embassy is something of a bewildered bystander.

To begin at the beginning, the United States is the world's No. 1 helium producer. We almost have a monopoly. The center of the business is Amarillo, Tex. It comes up in wells with gas and oil. While it won't lift as much as hydrogen when used in balloons and zeppelins, neither does it explode when bullets are shot through it or a lightning bolt strikes it.

When the German zeppelin Hindenburg burned last year as it moved into Lakehurst's naval air station, its inflammable hydrogen killed 33 persons. In a sympathetic mood, Congress authorized the sale of helium to foreign countries provided it first was determined that the shipment would not become a factor of "military importance."

Of course Germany was the only nation wanting much of it for airships and soon completed negotiations with the State Department for about 35 million cubic feet to be delivered in the next two years.

Germany set about reconstructing its new giant zeppelin to adapt it to helium and the Navy gave implied approval by extending to Germany again the permission to use Lakehurst for a landing field.

He Doesn't Like Hitler.

ALL this went on without Ickes being taken into consideration. But as Secretary of the Interior he is in charge of the Bureau of Mines, to which control of helium was assigned, and he considered it his job to determine whether helium was of military importance. Of course Germany was the only nation wanting much of it for airships and soon completed negotiations with the State Department for about 35 million cubic feet to be delivered in the next two years.

Young America Says—

Abolish Capital Punishment.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT DOES YOUNG AMERICA THINK ABOUT CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

Its elders have always observed the ancient, bloody Killer Code . . . turning murderer when murder has been done. But will Young America, with its vastly different viewpoint, revolt against such savagery?

"IT WILL!" cried Annabel Rosemond Frierson of Los Angeles, Cal., in a plea which would have done justice to young Portia.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"Should America retain its present system of capital punishment with its lethal chambers, electric chairs, and scaffolds—

"OR SHOULD AMERICA CEASE TO IMPOSE THE DEATH PENALTY?"

"I believe it should. Many, I know, will disagree with me. Many will insist that man's authority to impose the death penalty is a God-given right; they will repeat, 'A life for a life.' But in doing so they forget Christ's immortal answer to the argument—

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

"...But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which spitefully use you, and persecute you."

"America's most severe punishment should be life imprisonment. Prisons can be made strong enough structurally to hold the worst of criminals; they can be made strong enough in their uplifting qualities to reshape the worst of warped lives. Even if I knew that such a change would temporarily increase crime, I should still believe it wise. For as time passed, life would become sacred—something that man dared not destroy. The human race would become more tender. The spirit of revenge would die."

"Some day, if civilization continues to advance, the death penalty will be abolished; and future generations will look back upon our present system of punishment with more horror than we of today look back upon the barbarous cruelties of old Rome. Men, growing wiser all the time, will wonder how the world could have remained so long in a 'Dark Age' and they'll call our 20th century unenlightened, dark—unless our generation is wise enough to lift the torch!"

Annabel Rosemond Frierson—23, 3633 Seventh Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif. ($10 prize winner)

An argument which should start the whole Home Gang or Office Force pounding tables at once. What's YOUR VOTE?

AND now a round of cheers for Joseph Lecker of New Brighton, Pa.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"For months I've wanted to take an open 'swat' at the lowest form of human culture I know. I mean that detestable scourge of every city in America—the gossip or 'rumor peddler'."

"You gossipers are worse than a criminal! You select your victim. Without pausing for proof, you start your deadly 'whispering campaign.' You dig up the past, and then—perhaps because the past may contain an unpleasant incident—you howl with fiendish glee and tear down all your victim has been building up for years. You, as a committee of one, distort facts into damning, malicious lies."

"As your rumors circulate, your victim is met with icy stares. He is bewildered. Associates distrust him; friends are condemned with him. As the distorted, twisted tales reach your victim, he pleads his innocence....he is scoffed at! Soon he sees the futility of argument. He sees his hard work crumbling about him."

"Now, gossipers, your work is finished. You have done your 'duty' as a respectable citizen. The truth has been bared. You have exposed the snake amongst you. BUT HAVE YOU? No, you have not! YOU are the snake. YOU are the one that doesn't belong in a respectable community."

"And if not on earth, then surely in another world HE will judge. For it is NOT the teachings of the Holy Book that we should treat our neighbors so!"

Joseph Lecker—age 23, New Brighton, Pa. ($10 prize winner)

Here's to you, Jo—THAT'S TELLING 'EM! Wish I could make that ten times as big for one of the finest letters yet!

FIREWORKS! Sara Dean of Delaware, New Jersey, disagrees with me, and rightly! Sara thinks I made fun of Model Children in a Listen. World. You're wrong, honey. I wasn't ridiculing fine effort in any form—but I was trying to say that it takes more than a continuous stream of A's for success. In short, that CHARACTER, as a whole, counts for much, much more than copybook perfection.

Says Sara—

"I recent your remarks about Model Children for I happen to be a student who always gets all A's on her High School report. You call such a life 'playing safe,' but I call it industrious and ambitious and brave. It is hard to struggle for A's and brave the biting remarks of slackers."

"Maybe Grade A kindergarten children are only copyists and conformists, but it takes much more than conforming to get A's as you advance through the grades—or through life."

"Another thing that people often seem to misunderstand is that although students get A's they needn't be bookworms. Be, of a wise mother, I have a lot of fun. I don't have many walked mournfully before the girl friends, because they are jealous, but I do have some very faithful ones. I go to dances whenever there are any, and have unlimited partners. I am also a sports enthusiast and like to swim, rollerskate, bicycle and play basketball. I even took minor parts in our Junior and Senior plays."

"I hate braggers, but I am blowing my own horn for a reason. Your column is read by millions, and among those millions are A students who are bound to be discouraged. Although I am a faithful follower of your column and usually applaud your work, your criticism touched a tender spot."

Your rebellious admirer, Sara Dean—age 16, Delaware, New Jersey. ($5 prize winner)

Thanks, little girl, for correcting an impression that may easily have hurt many a conscientious youngster. But perhaps my words won't seem as unkind if you'll read the latest reports of our leading educators, who also insist that IT'S MORE IMPORTANT FOR A SCHOOL TO TEACH A STUDENT HOW TO BE AN ALL-AROUND HUMAN BEING THAN TO INSIST ON MERE PERFECTION IN REPORTS."

Good subject for a debate, isn't it? Why not try it out in your own school? And here's my repentant love to you all!

T.B. CASES FOR YEAR TOTAL 45

Diagnostic Clinic Reveals 8 More Ill in County Out of 31 Examined.

The total number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered in Richland county this year reached 45 today as eight more were reported at the monthly diagnostic chest clinic, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner disclosed.

Of the 31 suspects examined, eight were found to be positive cases while 23 were negative, Dr. Rehder said.

Four of the positive cases were from Mansfield while one was from Shelby and three from the various parts of the county. Of the total number of persons examined 15 were from the city, six from Shelby and nine from the county.

Dr. Rehder said that health department records showed that of the 208 persons examined at the clinics since the first of the year, 161 have shown negative tests.

The clinics are conducted under the supervision of the health department once a month and are financed from receipts of Christmas health seals. They are in charge of Dr. T. L. Bliss, Akron chest specialist who is connected with the Edwin Shaw sanatorium there.

Patients are admitted to the service of the clinic on recommendations of private physicians. The only cases referred to the clinic by the health department are those of indigent patients, Dr. Rehder said.

Van-Tine Firm Specializes In Home Building

For 72 years, dating back to Civil War days, the Gordon Van-Tine company has specialized in the building of homes.

Founded in Davenport, Ia., in 1865 by a young man named Uriah N. Roberts, the company has grown from a one-room shop until it now serves the greater part of the nation.

A skilled wood-worker, the founder established a building material factory in Davenport, where he discovered the finest lumber could be had and transportation was available at lowest rates.

From the start he succeeded on the foundation of rugged honesty and the idea that machinery should be used instead of hand labor whenever possible.

The plant grew steadily until now it serves builders from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic, with plants in the large timber producing areas and offices in the principal cities in the United States.

Sons Head Firm Today.

The business today is managed and owned by the sons of the founder and their associates. They attribute the success of their firm to: (1) honesty and fairness; (2) machine labor is more accurate and cheaper than hand labor; (3) the policy of reinvestment of surplus in modern equipment to produce better materials at less cost to the consumer.

Throughout the 72 years of its existence, the Gordon-Van Tine company has been solely and exclusively in the home building business.

To be certain of 100 per cent satisfaction in a new home, the company advises that every house should be planned by expert home planners and practical building engineers.

"No home can be built right that has not been planned right," is a Gordon-Van Tine byword.

The Van Tine system offers the home-builder not only the services of the country's leading home planning experts, but takes over the job from the day the plans are approved by the customer until it is ready for occupancy.

"It is the only system that plans your home and builds it complete for you under one contract and at one guaranteed price," Harry A. Parker, Gordon-Van Tine representative for central Ohio says. Mr. Parker's offices are in the Walpark building.

One of the strongest organizations of its kind in this section of the state, the Mansfield Provident company, 18 West Third street, was founded for the purpose of making loans to worthy people who found themselves temporarily short of money.

The company makes personal loans on their clients' own security and arranges for monthly payments in accordance with their income.

A feature of the Mansfield Provident business is the safeguarding of the patrons' interest through the firm's advisory department which is available to everyone.

Operating on a sound and conservative policy the company strives to give prompt and efficient service for the purchase or payment of automobiles, diamonds, furniture, farm equipment or other chattels. Manager M. L. Anderson points out.

"While the personal finance service is a comparatively new form of money service, these institutions have lent millions of dollars to citizens throughout the nation without asking or receiving any aid from the federal government," Mr. Anderson said.

"We have made every effort to aid the person in distress. We have retained our customers and have kept their friendship, as we have obtained thousands of new customers and made thousands of new friends, especially during the depression period."

Beach Wear Majors In Past el Tones As Summer Nears

By ADELAIDE KERR (AP Fashion Editor) This will be a bright summer at the shores, for color is a big note in 1938 beach costumes. Dusty pink, wine and plum tones have been added to the blues, aquamarines, yellows and occasional greens which already brighten the color card for sand chic. Pink and navy and aquamarine and wine are typical combinations. A little more design restraint and a little less epidermis will be observed on the smartest beaches this summer. The best costumes for swimming and sunning on the sands blend a cut which allows a generous sun-tan with good taste. The dressmaker suit is still going strong. It is coming to the beaches in pastel rayon suitings trimmed with darker bandings, in bright calico printed cottons and in linens processed to resist crushing. The 1938 version often is cut with a short-skirt and simple top and lined with jersey to keep it in trim. The one shown above is a dusty pink rayon knit. The new wool suits are knitted in novel patterns simulating hand work and liberally elasticized so that they snap to a smooth fit. The mailot—a sleek one-piece skintight design that swimmers love—promises to lead the wool suit contingent. Huge hats, small callots, kerchiefs and ribbon bands will all appear on the beaches this summer. So will thick cork-soled sandals and enormous bright beach bags liberally equipped with sun-tan lotions.
